

TBB018US | Targus CityGear 16" Commuter Backpack

The Targus CityGear Commuter Backpack is designed to fit laptops with up to 16" screens. This extra large capacity case features three large zippered sections, one which includes the padded laptop compartment with additional space for a thick binder or stack of folders, a second large compartment with a dedicated section to keep files or documents separate from the rest of the case with additional space large enough to store several text books. The third compartment includes dedicated pockets for business cards, a mobile phone and other small device like a camera or hub, three pen loops and two large mesh compartments large enough to store a laptop power adapter. A large front section with compression straps is designed to tightly hold a sweater or light jacket while you commute. For quick access accessory storage, the large front zippered compartment features a removable key ring, a dedicated mesh MP3 pocket with headphone-out port so you can listen to music on the go and space for school supplies like markers, pens and other small accessories. A front slip pocket positioned on top of the zippered compartment provides a convenient place to store and access small items.
